

Virtuoso performs

NANTWICH and District Choral Society are presenting a Beethoven Concert at the Oakley Centre, Crewe, this Sunday.

The society will perform with the Manchester Mozart Orchestra led by Fay Campsey and soloists are Robin Leighton Boyce (piano), Marian Greensill (soprano), Margaret Lindsay (mezzo soprano), Brian Greensill (tenor) and Nigel Waugh (bass). Conductor is Michael Bridger.

Robin Leighton-Boyce (pictured) has played in many concerts as soloist and has also performed with orchestras in England and France. He visited Macon, France, to represent the Borough of Crewe and Nantwich and took part in a concert. He played a Beethoven concerto with the Macon Conservatoire Orchestra and soloist works by Bach, Mozart and Chopin. His performance won an ovation from the large audience and was highly acclaimed by French music critics.

Robin took up the piano seriously at the age of 11 and has since won 25 cups and more than 100 certificates, most of them with distinction and honours. He won his first concerto competition at the age of 12. Formerly a pupil of Katharina Wolpe, he is now studying at the Royal College of Music under Professor Angus Morrison.

The Beethoven concert, which starts at 8 p.m. features Choral Fantasia, Mass in C and Piano Concerto No. 1. Tickets are priced £2.50 for adults, £1 for students and old age pensioners and £5 for a family.
